Gen. Butler on the Starvation of Prisoners.

At the celebration of the 4th at Lowell Gen. [illegible] Butler being called to respond to the toast [illegible] said:

[illegible] volunteers of the United States Army [illegible] another form of words for the Army of the United States as with the exception of a handful all the army were volunteers.

How they have fought! What battle fields have been rendered illustrious by their valor! What rights have been preserved by their constancy! What benefits to mankind by their success! How freedom to all men has been secured as a result of their labors! The pen of history has preserved a record enduring forever.

It is fit on this birthday of the nation whose very existence is preserved by their heroic patriotism, in our joyous commemoration, that we should honor them for their services and mingle our congratulations with theirs in praise upon the return of peace.

Would that they were all here to meet us and receive our greeting. But alas, in every home by the mountain side, in the fertile valley, upon the smiling plain as in the crowded city, there is a vacant chair which a much loved brother, a fondly endeared husband, a revered father for whose coming orphans have hoped and wearily watching, wept, or a son vainly waited for with the yearnings of parental affection shall never again fill.

In the far South, by the turbid river, in the sands of the Carolinas or on plains and amid the Wilderness of Virginia there are little mounds, fast disappearing under the tooth of time, which contain all that is left save our memories to weeping sister, wife, children, bereaved mother or country, of our gallant, loyal, devoted soldiers who have died that the Nation may live, even so [illegible] us to celebrate as a people the return of this day with its memories of patriotism and glory.

Would to God that the graves of these loved ones were all we have to mourn. Death on the battle field, or to those who fall by disease even in the path of duty, has its solace where the cause sanctifies and hallows it as the inevitable result of a struggle for liberty and Law. But look once again! On a sandy plain in the midst of a pine forest, bounded by a murky swamp, there is a pit, filled with dead men's bones, unnumbered, unnoted, uncounted, unrecorded, unnoticed, without sepulture or the sacred rights of burial. By thousands, not dead by the bullet, not stricken by disease from the hand of God, starved to death with the cruel torture of hunger, amid such plenty that an army of six myriads, with its cattle and horses could subsist on the surplus provision of the country in a rapid march past Andersonville, or murdered with frost under the shadow of the fat pines which sang their requiem to their memories as the Winter winds moaned through the branches whose very sighing called up in frenzy the happy homes and warm hearths of the North to the wandering minds of the dying martyrs.

Shall we do nothing but mourn and mingle our tears with the sorrow bowed ones of their homes, for these our heroes so loved and lost? Is there no responsibility for these so great wrongs? Is idle grief and useless sorrow all the solace that a grateful country and a powerful people can give to the sorrowing sister, widowed wife and mourning mother, for the brother, husband, son, thus foully, cruelly, basely murdered, with the set purpose to deprive that country of the service of its soldiers?

Shall we take to our hearts and to our social and political fellowship the cruel jailors who did these wholesale murders by famine and cold on our brothers and sons, helpless prisoners of war, entitled to food and warmth by every law, municipal or national, human or divine? Not in vengeance but in mercy, not in retaliation, but in precaution, not in revenge, but in prevention, that this thing may never be done again among civilized [illegible] as it never has been [illegible] a savage people shall [illegible] be brought to condign punishment.

Who in all the world, philanthropist or politician, editor or historian, soldier or civilian, has sent up or will send up a petition, that the keepers of the murder-pens, Libby, Belle Isle, Millen and Andersonville, shall be pardoned? The undried tears of the sister of every [illegible] soldier demands their execution. The forlorn woe of each lonely widow cries for it. Heaven's justice, the silent agony of every bereaved mother mutely pleads that her son's murderer shall not blast her sight in life. All nature and nature's God by His Holy law has decreed that the brother's murderer shall not live. Who then shall stay the hand of justice? Who shall stand between these men and the penalty of the law? [illegible] is none, not one.

But hold! Is there no answer for these prejudged criminals? Have they no plea to put in when so summarily arraigned at your bar? Hear them in mercy and deal with them in justice. Hear them as they answer for their lives. "We, the jailors of Andersonville, Libby and Belle Isle were but inferior military officers. We did but carry out the orders of our superiors. If we had refused to do their bidding we should have been court martialed and hanged. We were but the hands to do what the heads willed. We but followed out the policy of Jefferson Davis, the President of the Confederate States, to deplete by starvation the armies of the United States, and only executed the orders of Robert E. Lee, Commander in Chief of our armies, to prevent reinforcements coming to you, [illegible] by exchange of prisoners. Why hang us and subscribe $5,000 in New York as a testimonial to him? What kind of justice in your Government is it to shut us up in prison for obeying his orders and permit him to retire to his home in Virginia, like another Cincinnatus, returning not from serving, but ruining his country?

"Why visit all your punishment upon us? We are poor illiterate men, mere jailors. We were not educated at the people's [illegible] at West Point as were President Davis and General Lee. We have never sworn fealty to your flag in solemn service. We did not hold, at the beginning of the war, high offices civil or military in the Senate and army of the United States.

If we were guilty of the death of your soldiers at Andersonville as subordinates, were they not equally guilty as superiors? Besides, did they not bring on the war by their action in the Senate and army, and without them and such as they would the war ever have been begun or carried on at all? Are they not guilty, then, of the death of all your brothers, sons, husbands, and fathers on every battle field, in every hospital and in every prison? If you punish not them and such as they, why punish us?"

And their questions are hard to answer.

These men, does not justice say, ought not to be hanged, at least alone.

If then, we believe that our men were murdered at Andersonville, if we have not put forth a [illegible] falsehood to the world in this behalf against the South; if treason aggravated by murder most foul and numberless is worthy of death; if our sons and brothers are dear to us; if their [illegible] has not been shed in vain; if our country for whose safety so many good and brave men have been offered up is worth the sacrifice of the lives of great criminals, then let these leaders—representative men—be executed, as a warning and example that all men may understand hereafter that he who aims a blow at the life of his country shall surely die.

I give you, therefore—Justice and Mercy, both equal attributes of the Deity.

It is pretty generally known among the [illegible] at Washington, that Secretary Stanton [illegible] great love for music, that in fact [illegible] Dr. Johnson whom he in other respects resembles, the Secretary of War considers it [illegible] great bore. It is also known that Secretary Welles, who along with other infirmities [illegible] the pure leaf affects a great fondness for the divine art. It is also known that while a professor of music in Washington was trying to get up a series of subscription concerts [illegible] that city last winter, he called on Mr. [illegible] to get him to subscribe, and mentioned [illegible] that the Secretary of the Navy had already put down his name. [illegible] the bluff head of the War Department [illegible] I would subscribe too."

[illegible] FIRE.—A load of hay that was [illegible] along near Greeley's Mill [illegible] California, on the 19th instant, by a man named Waterman, took fire from the friction of the brake, and burned so rapidly that Waterman had barely time to free his seven horses and save them from destruction. There were two wagons connected together, both loaded with hay, groceries and provisions, all of which were destroyed—a loss of $600.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE STATE

MONDAY MORNING, SEPTEMBER 4, 186

The Mexican Question

It cannot be denied that the feeling of great numbers and perhaps of a large majority of the people of the United States, in relation to the Mexican question is strong enough to justify and sustain our Government in interfering at once to put a stop to foreign aggression in that country. In dealing with this very important matter our Government will not proceed with inconsiderate rashness but will pursue such a course as will enable it at all times to keep on its own vantage ground. Our "Monroe doctrine" which we insist has been infringed by France in her invasion of Mexico, has been variously interpreted. Some maintain that under this doctrine we ought to tolerate no interference whatever by a foreign power with the affairs of any American State, even if the people of such State invite such action; or in other words that it is our duty to prevent any of the American Republics, even of their own choice from passing into the hands of the monarchs of the old world. Now the Monroe doctrine in reality can mean nothing like this. If our Government were satisfied that the people of Mexico desire to have Maximilian as their Emperor, and were willing to give up their claims to self government, we should not have the shadow of a right to oppose such a procedure on their part. But the opposition which the French are encountering in Mexico shows that they are unwelcome intruders there, and it is very evident that if they remain they will first be under the necessity of fighting the republicans down. They will remain as conquerors and not as friends.

Our Government is proceeding in the matter with a purpose of regarding Maximilian in no other light than as an usurper whose presence is odious to the people over whom, by the employment of force, he is trying to acquire rule. The Monroe doctrine, if it means anything, can scarcely signify more than that the Republics of this continent are not to be subverted through force by monarchical powers. And if it has any meaning at all, we do not see how it can signify less than this. Just here is where our Government makes its point. Maximilian's empire has not been recognized by this country, nor will it be until the Mexican people first give their adhesion to it. Neutrality has hitherto been strictly observed by our Government and from present indications it seems as if this will be our course for the future, so as to give the upstart Emperor a chance to withdraw of his own accord—a movement which he appears quite likely to make ere long.

Quite a sensation was recently created at the East by a statement that Bigelow, our Plenipotentiary at Paris had made an official communication to the French Government wherein he said:

> We (our Government) do not like, of course, to see a monarchy established in Mexico, we prefer of course, republican institutions but we respect the will of the people, we can understand how Mexico, that was for a long time ruled by a monarchical government, would like to return to that form of government, and we would not go to war for the sake of a form of government.

Minister Bigelow has since pointedly denied that he ever made the above statement or anything like it. Indeed, the spirit of this announcement is so different from the settled policy of our Government in relation to the Mexican question, that, coming from the high source to which it was attributed, it was well calculated to startle every one who desires to see liberty maintained in Mexico, and the traditions of our country respecting foreign intervention, preserved. Had Mr. Bigelow really made this communication to the French Government, it would have indicated on the part of the United States a wide departure from what is believed to be the wishes of our people in connection with Mexican affairs. As it is, the matter stands precisely as it has done from the first; but it is sure to assume a new form before the expiration of another year.

Our Armies in the South.—Many journals, such as the New York News and Cincinnati Enquirer are demanding loudly that the Government shall withdraw all its troops from the Southern States, and leave the people there to manage affairs as they please. Of course this cannot be done, for as we could not let the States withdraw from the Union, neither can we now afford to give up all the fruits of the victory we have gained. Were our armies to be now recalled from every quarter of the late rebellious South, the result would be almost equivalent to that which would have followed had we recognized the independence of the pretended Confederacy a year ago. The laws could be nowhere enforced, Union men would be heartlessly persecuted just as they were in Tennessee three years ago, loyalists would be driven away from the polls and not permitted to vote; the most guilty rebels would be elected to State offices and returned to Congress, and the blacks, to whom freedom has been solemnly promised, would be re-enslaved. The public safety demands that the affairs of Government throughout the South shall be kept out of the hands of those who took the lead in the work of making war upon their country. After a time, the Union sentiment there will have grown so strong that loyal men can easily protect themselves, and the Government enforce the laws in the regular way. Until then, the troops cannot be, nor ought to be withdrawn.

The China Mail Service.—In accordance with an act passed by the last Congress, arrangements have been made for carrying a monthly mail by steamers, from San Francisco to China. The Pacific Mail Steamship Company have taken the contract to perform the service. New steamers are to be placed upon the route, and the service is to begin on the first of January, 1867. This is a most important enterprise. It will be of value not only to the Pacific coast, but to the whole country. Communication with China from New York, will hereafter be had by way of San Francisco. The establishment of this line of steamers will begin a trade with the rich countries of Asia, which is destined to be of great advantage to this country and which, on the completion of the Pacific Railroad, will turn the great stream of commerce which has hitherto passed around the Cape of Good Hope, across the Pacific ocean and through the continent of America. New York will be but 9,000 miles from China instead of more than double that distance as now.

Still Declaiming Against the Puritans.—Pat Malone and numerous other journalists of like character continue to pronounce philippics against the Puritans. They talk as if they had taken their cue from the following scene in Shakspeare:

> Sir Toby Belch. Possess us, possess us; tell us something of him.
> Maria. Marry, sir, sometimes he is a kind of Puritan.
> Sir Andrew Ague Cheek. O, if I thought that I'd beat him like a dog.
> Sir Toby. What, for being a Puritan? thy exquisite reason, dear knight?
> Sir Andrew. I have no exquisite reason for't, but I have reason good enough.

If Pat Malone were asked the reason of his hatred of the Puritans, his answer would be about as satisfactory as Sir Andrew Ague Cheek's was under the like circumstances.

O. P. F.—The old public functionary, Buchanan having finished his book is stilling his conscience by writing for the newspapers. The old wretch is uncommonly slow dying.

Warlike Report.—General Grant is reported to have said, in a conversation with the Mexican Minister a few weeks ago, "The French will have to leave Mexico."

Our New York Letter

New York, July [illegible], 1865.

When I [illegible] I remember having often to do the world. When I left the Oregon [illegible] Exchange. People then had but a faint notion of what was to come—the magnificent State to be created in that far off Oregon and of the populous cities and towns to be built on the banks of that majestic river. That was the time of "54 40 or fight" times, and it was hardly known whether that part of our territory [illegible] England [illegible] except hunters and trappers and the hardy warriors of the [illegible] Oregon and [illegible] savage and half gathered. [illegible] State commenced [illegible] the Union [illegible] the most flourishing [illegible] States and [illegible]. The course of a few years will [illegible] the many of the [illegible]. You already have [illegible] graphic communication with the East and but a few summers and winters will have [illegible] the Pacific [illegible] will [illegible] with us in [illegible]. Yet even these [illegible] will not be as strong as the love of Oregonians for the Union and the Constitution [illegible] which our [illegible] has fallen.

Now that the war is over and peace once more [illegible] within our borders [illegible] the attention of the people is centered [illegible] the Mexican, what shall I call it—Republic or Monarchy? The feeling is strong here [illegible] against allowing any European Potentates to [illegible] on this continent. There is no [illegible] bluster, but a genuine national idea that if Mexico cannot be ruled by her own people, she should fall into the lap of the United States rather than into that of France or any other European power. This sentiment will some of these days find vent, and then we shall hear something of the [illegible] of monarchical institutions in America and of the [illegible] of Maximilian as an Archduke. We do not want war for [illegible] that the nation is about satisfied, but if one it must, we have not been trained in the school of arms these four years for nothing. If necessary we can hold our own against a world in arms. An attempt was made recently to get up a recruiting system for Maximilian, but it was nipped in the bud. That is not our way of doing things. When we talk it will be right out in meeting and those who are in the way must stand from under.

The Fenians are growing a powerful body, and many people are looking for squally times over the water. That there is some truth in the statements that the Irish are organizing for a renewal of the trial of '48 seems confirmed by the fact that in this city the Fenians are in great numbers, as they are in fact all over the country, to say nothing of their own. Here they have a regular, so to speak, military headquarters, where wagon after wagon is seen daily to bump [illegible] of muskets and other articles looking to a struggle with some one [illegible] perhaps with England. The latter keeps her weather eye open and has for some years been training an immense body of volunteers and seemingly preparing herself for something in the future without any real belief in the capacity of the Irish to achieve independence. Any [illegible] can allege will soon be made, and that the stories of military drills at night all over Ireland, of which the English press has told us, have no more truth in them than the fantastical accounts would lead one to believe. Look out for news from Ireland some of these days.

THE MEXICAN EXILES

Held a meeting a few nights ago in the Cooper Institute. Among those present were Lieutenant General Gonzales, General Ortega, General Ru[illegible], Gov. Bar[illegible], Gov. Hays and others. Mr. Joshua Leavitt of the Independent presided and made the remark that "Maximilian must not be permitted to remain in Mexico supported by subsidies drawn from European bankers." Senors Zarcho and Villalobos were the speakers, the former arguing that monarchy in Mexico is not the work of the national will but has been imposed by violence and treason; he did not deny that a monarchical party existed there, but it was impotent and unpopular unsupported by a foreign army. The latter said, "it is more than three years since Napoleon's guns were thundering away in Mexico and yet the same heroes who fought and conquered at Magenta and Solferino, have not been able to subdue Hidalgo's country." The meeting showed a lively determination on the part of the Mexican exiles to go back to their country if they can, the hope of which comes from inspiring a feeling for them in the United States. They have plenty of sympathy, and the only question to be decided is whether the sympathy is active and earnest. Time will tell.

ONE REGIMENT AN HOUR

Is about the average number which daily has passed these head quarters of your correspondent. The sight is cheering and pleasant and convinces those of us who are located on Broadway, that the war is really over, albeit this scene is about the only thing that reminds us of the fact, for goods of all kinds at present seem to be kept at the same prices the grasping speculators ran them up to when Sherman was hundreds of miles from Savannah, and Grant had not finally "moved upon the enemy's works." The tattered flags go by now and then a grateful breeze shaking out their rags to an appreciating public, and the boys feel more pleased to hear New York's welcoming "Hi us," than the calumnious yelp they have been in the habit of listening to in a more southern location. All sorts of regiments march by here—some with only a hundred or so of men, with a couple of drums and fifes under command of a Captain, others varying from two hundred to six hundred, with full line and field officers—but they all look happy notwithstanding our Broadway sun seems to be particularly violent, and the sweat pours off them in floods. No wonder the darkey asked if there were any more Yankees in this world for the stream seems almost endless to us.

FEUILLETONISTS

Of the hifalutin order, are in demand in this city on our leading journals. George Alfred Townsend, the king of scribendular imaginatives, in his accounts and word painted descriptions of the assassination trial and of nigger ball room scenes at the Five Points, printed in the World has set the other "heavies" agog, and they all took occasion at the "Barnum fire," when George Alfred was out of town to draw on their imaginations to an unlimited extent, the results being a series of the most agonizingly distended, atrociously grotesque and Munchausenly graphic descriptions of hair breadth escapes, tiger fights, anaconda encounters, and lion raids that ever were set to type. The last effort was that emanating from the fertile brain and versatile pen of a new hand at the bellows in the Tribune office, devoted to the pleasurable sensations he experienced while viewing the adipose ankles of a thousand Dutch girls at the Saengerfest.

A HORRIBLE APPARITION

Occurred a few days since at the suburban residence of one of our wealthy merchants. The residence is situate at Ravenswood, a beautiful little settlement on the Long Island shore of East River and about opposite Blackwell's Island. The merchant was absent at the time and the house was in sole occupancy of his wife, two daughters and a young lady visitor from the city. It was in the afternoon with the temperature up in the eighties, and every door and window open to admit of the passage of the light breezes which came floating over the surface of the water. The ladies were seated in the parlors, enjoying a social chit chat when they heard an unusual clatter at the fence and in a moment more a wild looking red headed man dashed through one of the open parlor windows from the porch and stood in the midst of the shocked ladies—stark naked and water dripping from his skin. The ladies shrieked and one or two fainted; still the apparition stood before them gasping as if near suffocation. At length he spoke and demanded clothing. He was ordered to leave the house by the mistress but with a terrible oath he declared he never would leave unless they gave him something to cover his nakedness. A suit of her husband's clothes was procured by the lady, thrown into the room to him, and he soon departed. It was afterwards ascertained that a convict had escaped from Blackwell's Island and undoubtedly this was the man. He had swam the river, procured clothes and made his escape.

OUR NEW FIRE DEPARTMENT

Is getting on swimmingly. The opposition on the part of the volunteer firemen has nearly disappeared, all the down town companies having declared for the new [illegible]. The department will consist of thirty engines and ten hook and ladder companies. The former will all be steamers and the old fashioned hand engines are to be sold. There are to be no hose carriages, of which we formerly had a large number, but the tenders of the steamers are to carry hose enough for all purposes, much more probably than heretofore. The apparatus will be drawn by horses, and the strength of the companies is therefore to be reduced to twelve men all told. It is claimed and doubtless with truth that a great deal more work can be done by these twelve men aided by steam than by the four or five times as many who manned the hand engines on the way to a fire till the members can ride on their engine and thus reserve their energies for the scene of conflagration. A new steamer, the first of a number to be ordered from Amoskeag N. H., has just been put into service, and proved a great success. In a few minutes after the bells struck for fire the steamer [illegible] after the first of August [illegible] Mr. Lowe [illegible] fire commissioners [illegible] the year [illegible] 0,000.

[illegible]

Are fully aware the New York [illegible] and deservedly so. [illegible] which after a trying [illegible] to establish a first class [illegible] this city [illegible] In the city [illegible] a passenger [illegible] twenty-five [illegible] cents [illegible] in town [illegible] our city fathers [illegible] running [illegible] Union Square [illegible] the city below Forty [illegible] Street [illegible] fifty cents a passenger [illegible] commodate two persons. Unfortunately he has but four carriages [illegible] purpose. They earn $20 to $32 daily and the proprietor is so well satisfied with the results [illegible] and horses [illegible] and he will deserve [illegible] well wishes [illegible].

THE [illegible]

has bought the lot of ground on which the burned Barnum's Museum for the handsome sum of $[illegible] from Mrs. H. W. Sargent of Newburgh [illegible] years time. Mr. Barnum however had a lease of nearly twelve years to run and for this he received $20,000, which he quietly invested in seven thirty bonds. The site is the best in the city for a daily paper [illegible] and Mr. Bennett will doubtless in building there [illegible] to be the [illegible] the Times [illegible] the corner of Broadway [illegible] and [illegible] street [illegible] making the [illegible] Herald [illegible].

IMMIGRANTS

Are arriving daily in larger numbers than ever before. They are [illegible] every day that the [illegible] westward [illegible] physical strength of the country at least. [illegible] our American born [illegible] society which Patrick and Hans are glad to take. What in the world would we do for [illegible] many kinds of business but for the hard fisted brawny framed sons of Erin and the Faderland? Let them come along in legions. The land is large enough for all and rich enough in productive capability to sustain an hundred times as many people as will inhabit it a century hence. Statistics from the Commissioners of Emigration in this city show that in the last eighteen years 3,145,041 persons landed at this port alone, or one tenth the population of the country, and that of this number Ireland furnished 1,[illegible] and Germany 1,128,902.

A GREAT CATHOLIC CATHEDRAL

Following the example of Archbishop Hughes Bishop Loughlin of Brooklyn has moved in the matter of a great church edifice for the Catholics of that city. The site has been chosen. It is a plot of high ground on Clermont and Lafayette Avenues and commands a fine view of the lively region with which it is surrounded. The work of preparing a foundation has already commenced. The architectural style of the building has not yet been determined. By the way the immense cathedral of which the late Archbishop laid the corner stone is not progressing very rapidly; in fact for all I can see it has not advanced a little a year. It is located on the Fifth Avenue and if it is ever finished, will be a great ornament to even that pretentious portion of New York.

A STRANGE CASE

Occurred in Brooklyn recently. One night last week groans were heard in Fort Green Park the famous locality on which Washington planted his guns for the shelling of New York near ninety years ago. Officers hastened to the scene, and found a man weltering in his blood, who stated he had been attacked and robbed by two men, of whom he gave a precise description—of the attempted murder and robbery was given, all of which proves to have been bogus; for it seems that having no friends, he resolved to kill himself and inflicted nine wounds in his breast with a pocket knife to attain the desired result. Finally finding it so hard to "shuffle off this mortal coil" and either becoming sick of his job or aware that he was not progressing very rapidly towards the "bourne whence no traveler returns" he gave an alarm which brought assistance to him. He will recover.

The route of the procession will be such that the [illegible] of each Company in the Department will be taken [illegible] the march. The several machines will be left at their Houses at the [illegible] of the Parade before halting at the O. S. N. Co.'s wharf. The following is the order of the march:

From Second street to Ash st. [illegible] down Ash to First, up First to [illegible] up Salmon to Fourth, up Fourth to Morrison, down Morrison to Third, down Third to Yamhill, down [illegible] to Second, up Second to Oak, up Oak to Third, up Third to Washington, down Washington to Second, up Second to Morrison, down Morrison to First, up First to Yamhill, up Yamhill to Second, up Second to Taylor, down Taylor to [illegible], up First to Salmon, up Salmon to [illegible] Second to Main, down Main to First, down First to Taylor, up Taylor to Second, down Second to Yamhill, down Yamhill to First, down First to Morrison, up Morrison to [illegible], down Second to Washington, up Washington to Third, down Third to Oak, down Oak to Second, down Second to Pine, down Pine to Front, down Front to the Oregon Steam Navigation Company's wharf.

At the wharf "[illegible]" will be served, and the intention is that the day shall be made one of great enjoyment and [illegible].

[illegible].—On Saturday last Mr. Bernard [illegible] died in this city after an illness of thirteen days, aged [illegible]. Mr. Gatekunst was proprietor of the Delmonico [illegible] on First street, which was [illegible] by himself and his estimable lady, had become the most [illegible] restaurant of the city. He was an active [illegible] of Multnomah Company No. 2 and the [illegible] turned out largely, together with citizens and friends, to pay their last respects to him at the funeral. The ceremonies were performed at the Pres[illegible], and the concourse of people in attendance [illegible] that all were unable to gain admittance. [illegible] The procession, headed by the Mechanics' [illegible] the remains to the East Portland [illegible], and there was perhaps never a larger procession [illegible] in Portland. At the conclusion of the [illegible] Company of which Mr. Gatekunst was a member [illegible] their Engine House and adopted the preamble and [illegible] given below, which is a fitting tribute to the memory of [illegible]. Mr. Gatekunst was of German [illegible], aged 32 years, and leaves a wife and two children.

IN MEMORIAM.

[illegible] of Multnomah Fire Engine Company No. [illegible] held at their Hall on September 2d, 1865, the [illegible] and resolutions were unanimously [illegible]:

[illegible] The Almighty, in His infinite wisdom, has [illegible] from our midst our brother fireman, [illegible];

[illegible] Resolved, That in his death we realize the [illegible] and generous comrade, and an ener[illegible]. As an estimable citizen and just man, we esteemed him second to none; [illegible] and father we know him to have fulfilled his [illegible] affection and consideration worthy of emulation. [illegible] be it further Resolved, That realizing our [illegible], we tender our heartfelt sympathy and condolence [illegible] deeply afflicted widow and children, and we [illegible] that "He who tempers the wind to the [illegible]" will vouchsafe to them a meed of resignation in this, their hour of need.

[illegible] That a copy of these resolutions be furnished [illegible], and published in the OREGONIAN.

[illegible] IN THE CITY.—The workmen employ[illegible] on Saturday last, were somewhat [illegible] an [illegible] Eagle soar over their head, [illegible] of the street. It was taken as [illegible] the bird alighted in the middle [illegible] the place at which the Nicolson Pave[illegible] put down. Mr. W. D. Clark, who is [illegible] the sewage contract, caught the bird, [illegible] by a member of Willamette [illegible] No. 1. The company have two [illegible] birds, which will appear with them in [illegible].

[illegible]—We are informed by the pilot of the [illegible], that the dredger has done good [illegible], since she has been operating at the Willamette. He is of the opinion the [illegible] that the last two [illegible] have visited this port, could not have [illegible] here only for the work of the dredger [illegible], and the channel deepened sufficient [illegible] and uninterrupted [illegible] of thirteen and a half feet, on Fri[illegible].

[illegible]—The remarkable fineness of the day [illegible] the knowledge that the horses entered [illegible] positively start, together with the [illegible] contest, induced a large attendance [illegible]. Nearly every vehicle at the [illegible] to convey persons, and the [illegible] which was quite large [illegible] "on the road" and car[illegible]. The [illegible] was for $2,000 [illegible], but on the first heat one [illegible] other that there was no race [illegible], with much the larger [illegible] to the city, somewhat [illegible].

[illegible] and three thousand three [illegible] on Saturday last, [illegible] by the U [illegible] laws. They were [illegible], and the sale was upon a [illegible] District Court. The [illegible] was [illegible] one of our Chinese merchants, for [illegible]. The cigars sold for $365.

[illegible] and Female [illegible] opens [illegible] the reception of students. The corps of [illegible] excelled in this State. The Executive [illegible] that whatever can be done shall be [illegible] worthy of the patronage and a [illegible] of Portland. It is very desirable that [illegible] at the commencement of the [illegible].

[illegible].—Hon. Schuyler Colfax, in an [illegible] before the Odd Fellows of Sacramento [illegible] was the first to suggest the [illegible]. He afterwards presented the matter to the Grand Lodge of Indiana, who appointed him a [illegible] of a Manual. His success [illegible].

[illegible] in the vicinity of Portland are [illegible] trout. Those in the vicinity [illegible] are also well supplied, and a [illegible] made their appearance in the city. [illegible] had an excellent [illegible] of trout served at [illegible] No. 90, Front street, on Friday and [illegible].

[illegible] a petition in the hands of the [illegible] on fire and water, asking for new cisterns at [illegible]. The recommendations of the Chief [illegible] then to the matter of fire cisterns, are [illegible]. Small cisterns and plenty of them [illegible], are what is needed.

[illegible] STEAMBOATS.—The new steamer [illegible] takes the place of the Cowlitz to lay in the [illegible] Monticello [illegible] the New World in the up [illegible] and the Cowlitz will run [illegible] during the [illegible] stopping of the [illegible] will [illegible] repairs.

[illegible] team of horses attached to a carriage [illegible] two gentlemen, became frightened [illegible] in the Third Ward on Saturday evening, and ran away. The driver and his companion [illegible] buggy upset and terribly [illegible] dollars will repair all damages.

CIGARETTES AND CIGARS.—[illegible] San Francisco [illegible] an [illegible] on the subject of the manufacture [illegible] cigars in that State. One [illegible] of the cigars used in California are [illegible] by fifty [illegible].

[illegible] HIS BOND.—John Milk was lately [illegible] in the sum of $500 bonds to keep the peace toward Mrs. [illegible]. He overstepped his obligation on Friday night by giving the old lady another thrashing. Officers are looking out for him.

[illegible] COURT.—The Supreme Court of the State will meet at Salem to-day. A number of Attorneys from Portland left on Saturday and yesterday to attend the term. Others leave this morning.

EFFECT OF THE NEW CONVICTION OF MARY HARRIS.—The Boston Traveler says the day the result of the trial of Mary Harris was announced the following interesting conversation was overheard: "Carrie dear, will you please lend me your revolver? I fear George will not be true to me [illegible] to-night." "Why, Emma! I'm so sorry! I've just lent my revolver to May, as she has a beau with ever so much more money than Alfred; but, dear, I can let you have my [illegible] stiletto, which much pleasure [illegible]"

Two subsidiary steamers of six [illegible] to be supplied [illegible] the service at Southampton with Antwerp, Havre and [illegible] through rates of freight being established between these and New York. The enterprise is [illegible] supported by the London and Southwestern Railroad Company, the Southampton Dock Company and other important concerns.

Fenian demonstrations on a small scale had taken place near Scarron. A [illegible] police and military preparations had been made by the authorities and [illegible] was not disturbed.

Apprehensions of the approach of the cholera were increasing in England. The epidemic had reached Marseilles. At an important meeting of medical officers and others in London resolutions were adopted advising the utmost care and all possible precautions.

France.

The Cherbourg fetes were continued until the 18th, when the French and English squadrons left for Brest. All passed off well, although the brilliancy of the effect was greatly marred by stormy weather.

Russia.

Two ships of the Russian iron-clad squadron were wrecked on their way to Stockton.

The Czar had gone to Moscow to present his sons to the Senate and people.

LIVERPOOL, August 20, via Queenstown.—A convention between Austria and Prussia has been concluded concerning the Duchies, Prussia getting [illegible], paying Austria a pecuniary indemnity. The Provisional Government in the Duchies still continues. Prussia will acquire Schleswig and Austria, Holstein.

Atlantic telegraph preference shares are quoted at 21¼@21½.

Ship lost at Sea.

NEW YORK, August 30.—Late English papers announce the loss by sinking of the ship Sim Dunning, from Rangoon for Liverpool, by which 25 lives were lost. The survivors were obliged to eat leather belts and pitch to keep them from starvation.

Politics in New Jersey.

TRENTON, N. J., Aug. 30th.—The Democratic State Convention to-day nominated Gen. Runyon, for Governor. The committee on resolutions reported a series charging the consequences of the war on the election of a sectional President and the fanaticism of a sectional party favoring the return of the government to its original purposes and object, declaring and insisting on the rights of the States opposing negro suffrage emphatically and agreeing with President Johnson that this subject must be left with the States, favoring the use of a gold and silver currency, opposing military arrests, favoring the freedom of elections and the restoration of habeas corpus.

Extra Billy Smith—Albert Pike.

Albert Pike of Arkansas has applied to the President for pardon with an elaborate and spirited statement. The petition comes from Ottawa, Canada, and is signed by two hundred names of the masonic fraternity. He denies having anything to do with inciting Indians to take up arms against the United States.

Mexican News.

NEW YORK, Aug. 30.—The World's Vera Cruz letter says: The news from the interior does not show a disposition on the part of Juarez and the other opponents of the Imperialist Government to give up the contest. No sooner is the struggle ended at one point by the interposition of French and Austrian bayonets, than it commences at another. It seems to be an endless cause. This chronic state of sedition is attributed by some, to the leniency shown by Maximilian toward the leaders of guerrilla bands who have applied to him for pardon, them, having obtained it they have shown themselves ungrateful and returned to their former avocations of highway robbery. There is hardly a State at present which is not overrun by roving bands of guerrillas. All the stage routes through Mexico are infested with robbers, so that traveling is very unsafe.

A Mexican authority says: Nearly four thousand rebels, under the command of Gen. Magruder, had arrived at Monterey. Since then several of them have left that city for Mexico, where they have met their former associates, Sterling Price, Gov. Moore, and Allen Pierce, Melville and Soule. At first they offered to enlist in the Imperial army, but their offer was declined. The Government has deemed it preferable to organize them into a military and agricultural association, which will occupy the route between Mexico and Vera Cruz.

They have proposed to establish a temporary American railway which will be ready next year. They will make no service of the route until the English railroad be finally established.

Cortinas has issued another proclamation calling on the people to rally to his standard and expel the invaders.

FALSE DELICACY.—The friends of those who are troubled with bad breath and, through over-squeamishness, dislike to refer to it, commit a positive and cruel mistake, especially if they are aware of the merits and great efficacy of the Fragrant SOZODONT. This is the true and only remedy for the difficulty; there is no valid excuse for a bad breath now.

My Two Come Not from the War

The gold'n sunlight lingers [illegible] orchard [illegible]
As file on file of gallant troops [illegible] long [illegible] the town;
While Freedom's banner floats on high from belfry roof and dome
And the hearts shout a glad "Hurrah" to [illegible] them "Welcome Home."

I scarce can see their faces [illegible] my bitter blinding tears,
I only catch a greeting [illegible] giving cheers;
A thousand hearts throb gladly [illegible] with grief and [illegible]
The troops are marching [illegible] again but Willie is not there.

My Two!—On Freedom's altar I humbly laid them [illegible]
Husband and son went forth to die—they wear the martyr's crown
The loathsome dens at Salisbury, whose tales of horror told
How Edward pined his life away; it made me gray and old.

But Willie was his mother's pride, his mother's only son;
He was so bright and beautiful, my darling precious one.
I see him, as two months ago he stood with eager [illegible]
And showed his new made captain's bars—my [illegible] boy

Ah me! he fell at Petersburg; just ere the day was won
A rebel bullet found his heart, whose life seemed but begun;
They brought me home a soft brown curl—I have it [illegible] here—
My Willie slumbers 'neath the sod, and life is [illegible]

Yet glorious shadows seem to stand in every vacant place,
Where late they stood who now lie low; I see each absent face;
Responsive to the muster roll hear [illegible] the lines [illegible]
They answer for La Tour D'Auvergne, First Grenadier of France—

Dead on the field of battle! [illegible] remember [illegible]
The patriots of the rank and file who lived unknown to fame
I gave my country all I had, the old but simple story,
My two, the lonely widow's mite! Give them their crowns of glory.—Home Journal

Atlanta—The Country Desolate

[Correspondence of the New York Tribune]

Atlanta, Ga., July 3, 1865.—Atlanta is a heap of ruins. No one can imagine its condition. I had read about the burning of Atlanta, but never once believed it was so thoroughly destroyed. The Court House and churches, the Masonic Hall and the buildings belonging to the medical faculty and one block used as a hospital, are all that is left standing. Everything else is a heap of rubbish and ruins. Factories, stores, banks, rolling mills, hotels, everything is gone. No one is doing anything toward rebuilding. The people sit sulkily, and when they speak it is to curse the Government. Those who have any means are waiting to see what the Government will do. I told a number standing on the corner that the Government intended to do nothing, only to thrash them unmercifully if they again rebelled. "If this [illegible] before your eyes is not enough," I said "you can have another." "Yes," said one, "Hell has laid her egg, and right here it hatched."

Inside and around the Court House there were at least 1,000 women pushing and fighting to get up to the place where they got tickets for rations. Five have been smothered, trampled on and killed within a few days past.

The [illegible] had refused to give tickets for days on account of the disorder, but daily the disorder increased. No guard was there to keep order, or make them fall into line. To-day the crowd was terrible. The wide halls of the building were packed, all crowding and pushing to get up for tickets. Soon they were ordered away to another building on the other side of the town. Afterward I saw them struggling quite as hard to get up to a window on the outside. These people were mostly from the country; some had come forty miles. Many of them had only one garment on them, made of coarse cotton cloth, and not colored except with dirt. Outside the crowd, waiting with anxious faces, were some who were well dressed. Food, something to sustain life, was their great desire. These were women. A few men stood around, and many were arriving from the country. One man, haggard and worn, had a low cart, drawn by one ox, with a few corn leaves for the ox, but nothing for himself, except a few wild plums, which he was trying to sell for five cents a quart. "I have been here four times [illegible]," he said, "to get rations, but have not [illegible]; there is such a crowd, and so much disorder. My wife and I have lived on wheat bran, and nothing else for five days. God help us, or we shall die." I said, "My friend, do you know who brought this great trouble upon you?" "Well, I begin to see it now. I think it was Howell Cobb, Toombs and Jeff. Davis, sir." "And are you going to let men of that stamp rule over you again?" "Well, I hope not." Another man, a little better dressed, and not quite so starved, also in a cart drawn by one ox, said to me "Do you think the slaves are free?" I looked at him and asked, "Do you own slaves?" "Yes, I have five, and my neighbors tell me they are not free according to the law. The Constitution of the United States guarantees us our property, and they tell me that slaves are held by the laws of the State, and I reckon when we have a State Government we shall get them back again." "How [illegible] land do you own?" I asked. "About 300 acres. It is very poor. It lays towards Stone Mountain, and is very rocky. I told my servants they might go if they wanted to; but they have not gone yet." Here was a man so poor that he was coming to the Government every ten days for food, and arguing the case about the right the General Government had to free the slaves of those of those in rebellion against it. Now, with all deference to my superiors, it is my opinion, decidedly, that President Johnson, instead of pardoning the [illegible] of Augusta—should strip them of every dollar they possess and turn it over for the support of these starving people, made so by the acts of Cobb, Toombs and all the rich and leading men at the South. Is it justice for the Government to give out 30,000 rations daily, as I understand it does in this district, and let those wicked rebels go free with all the property they possess? I beg the privilege of crying aloud against this great abuse of the pardoning power. Already the pot is boiling, and just as sure as there is not heavy hand kept upon these rebels who bred the mischief, there will be trouble. The [illegible] of the guard over our prisoners at Andersonville, a man who did more to starve, abuse and [illegible] than any other is a [illegible] here in Atlanta, and is suffered to go at large. It is [illegible] here that he openly [illegible] the starving to death of our prisoners, and yet he is at large. The Governor who has been appointed for the State of Georgia—Mr. Johnson—[illegible] the moral courage nor the backbone to stand up against the rebel element everywhere rampant. When the State was being canvassed, prior to seceding, two flags were put up near [illegible] one the flag of the Union, the other of the State. The speakers were told to speak under whichever they chose. Mr. Johnson went over and spoke under the State flag. Again he ran for Governor against Joe Brown at the last election under Confederate rule, showing his willingness to accept office and the oath under the Confederate Government. Now, will he take such measures as will encourage loyal men, and protect the freedmen from being persecuted and killed? I think not. One colored man was killed yesterday, and one the day before, by paroled prisoners just returned. A Governor should be appointed for these States who would adopt an iron-clad oath which should effectually stop any man from voting or getting elected into the Convention or Legislature who is a rebel. Otherwise the war just over has been fought in vain.

The further into Dixie I get, the more hatred I find toward the Government and toward the Yankees. The military power is the only safeguard. If that were withdrawn I could not travel in the Southern States and ever hope to get back again alive. To-morrow the State Road is opened through to Chattanooga. It has been repaired wholly at the expense of the General Government. To sum up Atlanta, the Gate City is totally destroyed. Ten years of assiduous industry will not suffice to rebuild it. Hood's Army and Sherman's Army, marching and countermarching all around it, have destroyed the country for miles. The trees are riven and the ground is plowed with cannon balls. May this terrible lesson be enough to hinder rebellion for all time to come.

Enforcement of the Laws in Tennessee.—President Johnson has written the following letter to Governor Brownlow, of Tennessee.

Washington, July 20, 1865.

Hon. W. G. Brownlow: I hope and I have no doubt you will see that the recent amendment to the Constitution of the State, as adopted by the people, and all laws passed by the last Legislature in pursuance thereof, are faithfully and fairly executed, and that all illegal votes in the approaching election be excluded from the polls, and the election for members of Congress be legally and fairly conducted. When and wherever it becomes necessary to employ force for the execution of the laws and the protection of the ballot box from violence and fraud, you are authorized to call upon Major General Thomas for sufficient military force to sustain the civil authorities of the State. I have received your recent address to the people and think it well timed, and hope it will do much good in reconciling the opposition to the amendment of the Constitution and the laws passed by the last Legislature. The law must be executed and the civil authority sustained. In your efforts to do this, if necessary Gen. Thomas will afford a sufficient military force. You are at liberty to make what use you think proper with this dispatch.

Andrew Johnson,
President of the United States.

The Last Moments of Mr. Nisbet

The San Francisco Bulletin of the 25th ult., has the following account of the last moments of Mr. Nisbet, one of the lost passengers of the Jonathan, and late senior editor of that paper:

"We give the following interesting statements showing how Mr. Nisbet spent his last moments. We have before [illegible] stated that his will, evidently written at the time the Brother Jonathan was sinking, arrived in this city on Friday by the Del Norte. It covers the first and about one eighth of the second page of an ordinary sized sheet of note paper, and though written with a pencil, has not been at all defaced by the action of the salt water. Other documents found on his person were, however, considerably injured by the water, showing that he had used those less important papers as wrappers to the will, or that he had deliberately calculated that pencil writing would be less liable to damage than if written with a pen and ink. The following is a correct copy of the will:

At Sea, on board the Brother Jonathan, July 30th 1865.

In view of death, I hereby appoint my brother Thomas Nisbet, at present engaged on the Pacific Railroad near Clipper Gap, California, my sole executor, with instructions to wind up my whole estate, real and personal, and convert the same into cash, with all convenient speed, but so as not to sacrifice the same, and to pay over and divide the same equally between himself and my sole sister Margaret Nisbet, now residing in England, and under burden of the payment of a legacy of five thousand dollars in gold to Almira Hopkins, wife of Caspar T. Hopkins, Insurance agent, San Francisco, Cal. And I desire that my brother, said Thomas Nisbet, shall not be asked to give security for his intromission with my estate.

Jas. Nisbet.

It is remarkable that notwithstanding the appalling circumstances under which this document was undoubtedly written, it is inscribed in the usual firm and distinct hand writing of the deceased, and even punctuated as accurately as if intended for "copy." On the third page of the sheet Mr. Nisbet wrote an affectionate letter to his brother, giving him in the fewest possible words a schedule of all his property, directing him as to his choice of an attorney, and sending a parting message to his only sister, to whom he was most tenderly attached.

Business being thus carefully attended to, and still a spare moment intervening before the fatal plunge, the fourth page of the sheet he devoted to the last sacred duty of friendship—a friendship all the more intense, because its strength was concentrated upon the very few that really knew the depth of feeling his strong, pure, straightforward nature was capable of. These few hurried lines were addressed to the family of Mr. Hopkins, in which he had resided for several years, and whose children—though in no manner related to him—familiarly called him Grandpa. They had urged him not to sail on Friday, especially on the unlucky Brother Jonathan. It was evidently in remembrance of their child-like apprehensions on his account that he wrote as follows:

My Dear Dear Ma.—A thousand affectionate adieus. You spoke of my sailing on Friday—hangman's day—and the unlucky Jonathan. Well, here I am, with death before me. My love to you all—to Caspar, to Dita, to Belle, Mollie and little Myra—kiss her for me. Never forget

Grandpa.

Mr. Nisbet was always fond of children. In the few families he visited he quickly found out their birth-days, and then whatever Pa and Ma might give was sure to be accompanied by a book, a jewel, or piece of plate, from his generous hand. On Christmas he loved to enact the character of Santa Claus, and at no time was he so happy as when surrounded by the little ones, telling them stories, romping with them, or teaching them old country plays. We may rest assured that long after the busy turmoil of the world shall have swept away the more transient memories of our revered associate, in those young hearts will forever be engraved his concluding words, "Never forget Grandpa."

"New Dangers Threaten Us."—In his letter addressed to the committee superintending the Gettysburg celebration, President Johnson said:

"As I have often said, I believe that God sent this people on a mission among the nations of the earth, and that when he founded our nation he founded it in perpetuity. That faith sustained me through the struggle that is past. It sustains me now that new duties are devolved upon me and new dangers threaten us."

The President evidently feels the responsibility of his situation and the need of loyal support and loyal counsel in the adjustment of vexed questions of policy which, simple and trivial as some people pretend to regard them, enter largely into the unsolved problem of reconstruction and are full of peril to the country. We have an abiding faith in Andy Johnson. Like his illustrious predecessor, he belongs to the people, and as their appointed servant he has but one aspiration, to discharge well and wisely, the trust committed to his hands. He desires and he should receive the generous confidence and support of the loyal people of the North. It will be borne constantly in mind that in the discharge of the new and untried duties of his position, in its relation to reconstruction, he has no precedent to guide his steps or mould his policy. Keeping within the strict letter of the fundamental law, he has instituted certain measures looking to the pacification and reorganization of the insurgent States, but everything is experimental, and if the best interests and the honor of the country are not fully subserved thereby, one dash of his pen can annul every enabling act of his administration, and hand over the crude chaotic and discordant wreck of the rebellion to a new and more auspicious policy. There is no haste in the matter. Treason has plotted in secret for thirty years. A righteous retribution would assign them thirty years to regain their forfeited allegiance, and four years of desolating war may at least demand four years of heartfelt repentance. Let us make haste slowly, and be sure we are right before we go ahead.

We have nothing to lose and everything to gain by the delay. The only danger to which we are exposed, is division among ourselves. The hope of the country is reposed in the virtue, intelligence and cohesive strength of the Union party, and while an honest difference of opinion about the political status of the freedman may be safely tolerated, we must remember the danger to which we are exposed. It is well to remember that the whole question as affecting the rights of the negro, is reduced to this single issue, namely, we must support the administration of Andrew Johnson, or give place to a party which, if it did not reinstate the rebellion, would reinslave the freedmen to perpetuate its power. The constitutionality of the emancipation proclamation is already questioned in Democratic [illegible] quarters. Hence it behooves every Union man and every friend of humanity to stand by his [illegible].—Lafayette (Ind.) Courier.

Poltroonery.—It is curious to observe how ineradicable is poltroonery. When the Southern leaders were plotting the rebellion, and preparing to strike at the Union and Government, there was a class of persons and papers in the Free States which was constantly denouncing "the disorganizers and radicals of the North" as exasperating such lambs as Davis, Slidell, Wigfall, Mason, and the rest, and goading even those mild and forbearing brethren into rebellion. Of course when the lambs were ready and attacked the Government, the same lickspittles declared that the wicked radicals of the North were the guilty party, and that the poor erring lambs were greatly to be pitied and forgiven. Now that these at back is [illegible] and the States are to be reorganized, the same old Pecksniffs turn up again and inform us that "the radical revolutionary faction and secessionists of the North" are at their old tricks. They are abusing those Southern lambs again. They compelled them to try to get out of the Union, and now they are trying to prevent the innocents from getting in. If only the howls of the "Northern incendiaries" could be silenced we should hear the soft coo of secession doves and the plaintive bleating of rebel sheep.

Doubtless the people of the loyal free States have much to answer for. But is it not just possible that their fellow citizens who made war upon the country to save slavery are not altogether guiltless? Or indeed is it only some shivering poltroon who thinks each side equally wrong, and who cries lustily "Good Lord! Good Devil!" who is truly pious?—Harper's Weekly.

The Petersburg Index complains that returning Confederate soldiers are received there more coldly than they would be in Maine or Massachusetts. They wander about the streets reduced to skeletons, suffering from wounds, on crutches, in rags, without food or money, and are more kindly treated by the Yankees than by the inhabitants of the Cockade City. There's gratitude for you.

A [illegible] lodger in Virginia City got up in the night to [illegible] the candle and began to execute vengeance on a bedbug crawling on the wall. The lining took fire and burned the house, the man escaping in his shirt only. But he cleaned out the bedbugs.

The Richmond Republican says: Those who ought to be informed as to the facts, state to us that the military authorities had positively refused under any circumstances, to permit the Richmond Whig to resume publication.

Remarkable Disclosures of Confederate Documents.—The New York Herald publishes a report made to the rebel Congress of the working of the rebel Commissary Department. It also gives a view of the resources of the rebels at the commencement of the war, and the difficulties encountered by the rebel Government in the progress of the struggle [illegible] feeding its forces. It shows that it was [illegible] impossible for the rebel States to produce supplies enough to sustain the rebel armies, and that they never did so. It also shows that vast amounts were paid to feed these armies by [illegible] that ran the blockade, and were all [illegible] by the stupidity of Jeff. Davis and his associates.

This report makes some remarkable disclosures of the operations of men on our side of the line. It shows there were on our side in 1862 a great many men ready to furnish the rebels with all the necessary army supplies, and that these men had sufficient influence with our Government [illegible] able to get their boat loads of stores through the lines, and to evade all the watchfulness of the Treasury Department and the military commanders at Memphis, New Orleans and other points. They did business on so large a scale that they could contract at once to deliver 10,000 hogsheads of bacon, thousands of sacks of salt and [illegible] coffee in abundance and all other necessary stores.

Contracts were made between Northern men and the Southern Government for the supply of the Southern armies, and Lee's army was fed in that way to a great extent. Early in 1862 Jeff. Davis opposed the plan and insisted on the belief that withholding cotton would compel the recognition of the Confederacy at an early day. The report discloses important facts in many points of the rebel Government and errors and weakness of Davis. It declares also the fact that the rebellion was kept alive and the war prolonged by villains on our own side of the lines.

John Bright.—It is said that President Johnson has expressed his intention of placing a frigate at the disposal of John Bright should that English statesman desire to visit this country.

Public Sale

Of Land for Street Assessments.

Notice is hereby given that by virtue of Warrants duly issued by order of the Common Council of the City of Portland to me directed, commanding me to levy upon and sell according to law each of the pieces and parcels of land hereinafter described, the assessments upon said parcels of land, declared by Ordinance No. 210 for the purpose of improving Front street between the south line of Morrison street and the north line of Harrison street in said city and which assessments have not been paid and are now delinquent.

"CONSTITUTION WATER,"

THE ONLY REMEDY FOR DISEASES OF THE

BLADDER, KIDNEYS,

Gravel, Dropsical Swellings,

GENITAL DEBILITY, ETC.

The astonishing success which has attended this invaluable medicine proves it the most efficient one ever discovered. No language can convey an adequate idea of the immediate and almost miraculous change which it occasions in the debilitated and shattered system. In fact, it stands unrivaled as a remedy for the permanent cure of the maladies above mentioned, and also—

DIABETES, IMPOTENCY,
LOSS OF MUSCULAR ENERGY,
PHYSICAL PROSTRATION,
INDIGESTION,
SEMINAL WEAKNESS,
GLEET, FLUOR ALBUS,

And in every disease in any way connected with the [illegible] or decay of the Procreative Functions. Persons about to marry, if conscious of any weakness, should take the

CONSTITUTION WATER,

Whether broken down by excess, weak by nature, or impaired by sickness, the unstrung and relaxed organization is at once refreshed, revivified and built up. Well may this celebrated medicine be called the

MEDICAL WONDER.

The stooping, trembling victim of depression and debility becomes a new man; he stands erect, he moves with a firm step; his mind, which was previously sunk in gloom or an almost idiotic apathy, becomes bright and active; and he goes forth regenerated, conscious of new vigor.—The medicine reaches the CONSTITUTION itself, and restores it to its normal condition.

IRRITATION OF THE NECK OF THE BLADDER,
INFLAMMATION OF THE KIDNEYS, AND
CATARRH OF THE BLADDER,
STRANGUARY AND BURNING, OR PAINFUL
URINATING,
CALCULUS, GRAVEL,
BRICK DUST DEPOSIT, AND MUCOUS
OR MILKY DISCHARGES AFTER URINATING

For these diseases it is truly a sovereign remedy, and too much cannot be said in its praise. A single dose has been known to relieve the most urgent symptoms. TRY IT in these cases, and you will ever give praise to

CONSTITUTION WATER.

Males or Females,

Are you troubled with that distressing pain in the small of the back and through your hips? CONSTITUTION WATER will relieve you like magic.

ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM!

The Remedy for Curing

CONSUMPTION, COUGHS, COLDS,

Asthma, Croup,

Diseases of the Throat, Bronchitis, Pains and Oppression of the Chest and Lungs, Difficult Breathing and all the Diseases of the Pulmonary Organs.

Its action is expectorant, alterative, sudorific, sedative, diaphoretic and diuretic, which renders it one of the most valuable remedies known for curing diseases of the lungs. It excites expectoration, and causes the lungs to throw off the phlegm or mucus; CHANGES THE SECRETIONS AND PURIFIES THE BLOOD; heals the irritated parts; gives strength to the digestive organs; brings the liver to its proper action, and imparts strength to the whole system. Such is the immediate and satisfactory effect that it is WARRANTED TO BREAK UP THE MOST DISTRESSING COUGH IN A FEW HOURS TIME, if not of too long standing. IT IS WARRANTED to give entire satisfaction even in the MOST CONFIRMED CASES OF CONSUMPTION! IT IS WARRANTED NOT to produce costiveness (which is the case with most remedies) or affect the head, as it contains no Opium in any form. IT IS WARRANTED TO BE PERFECTLY HARMLESS to the most delicate child, although it is an active and powerful remedy for restoring the system. THERE IS NO REAL NECESSITY FOR SO MANY DEATHS BY CONSUMPTION, when ALLEN'S LUNG BALSAM will prevent it if only taken in time.

Sold by all Druggists. Price $1 per bottle.
